The career thus closed by death probably stands unique in the history of the south. His more than 64 years of active participation in the affairs of his state began when, at the age of 17, he enlisted in the third Georgia regiment, commanded by his father, Colonel-Ransom Wright, of Louisville, General Wright's native town.

Early in the bitter struggle the gallant young soldier lost a leg but this by no means brought an end to his service. He returned to the colors as a scout and was captured by the Federal forces during a daring expedition to the north of the Potomac. He later was returned to his command through an exchange and continued he heroic service during the remain-

BUSINESS today is based upon service. The "grab and run" manufacturer is almost extinct. Advertising has played its part in his passing. By contrast with the open methods of others, it has thrown his operations into such sharp relief that it has left him no recourse. His failure was inevitable.

People have come to depend upon consistently advertised merchandise. They have confidence in the manufacturer who places himself on record month after month as to the merits of his product. They know he will maintain that product at the standard he has set, not only for their protection but for his own. Should he drop below, the buying public would soon discover it, and his business would be faced by ruin. No manufacturer who is spending large sums to produce, advertise and sell an article is going to take that risk.

Quality, utility and value are the things uppermost in the mind of the advertiser today. Improving his product, making it more useful to you, giving you greater value for your money, these are his aims. When he succeeds, he tells you about it-in The Constitution advertisements.

The most highly perfected motor cars in the world today

NEW CADILLACS NEW LA SALLES NEW FLEETWOODS

A greater line of more than 50 magnificent new types and models

A Lower and Wider Price Range on All Body Styles

New Designs—Lower Racier Lines—Greater Seating Capacity—Larger Engines—More Power and Speed—Richer Finer Fisher and Fleetwood Bodies—Non-Shatterable Security-Plate Glass Standard Equipment in All Windows, Doors and Windshields—Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission—Safety-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes—New Harmonized Steering System—New Recessed Instrument Panel—Every Essential Engineering and Mechanical Feature Refined Beyond all Previous Cadillac Standards

With the advent of these three superb lines of new Cadillacs, La Salles and Fleetwoods in a lower and wider price range, the doors automatically open to admit thousands of new owners to the Cadillac family.

In plain and easily verified terms of value, these resplendent new models make an irresistible investment appeal.

The market has never known cars as highly perfected or as complete in every major and minor detail. So, too, on a price comparison basis, the market has never offered so large a measure of in-built worth.

Carrying with them more strongly than ever the class distinction which has always made Cadillac so desirable, these three new groups reach out and take over by right of conquest in valuegiving what can almost be called a universal quality market.

It is important to realize how this new distinction has been won. Cadillac has never built to price, realizing that such a policy leads inevitably to elimination from the high quality field. Rather, the highest quality has been sought first, while price-value has been reached through volume and superior resources. Uniqueness of quality-value has thus been achieved and is now more startling than it has ever been in Cadillac's history.

How true this is becomes evident as soon as you become personally familiar with these three new lines and then look about for purposes of comparison.

So sharp and striking is the advantage in favor of Cadillac, La Salle and Fleetwood in the performance, appearance and price alignment of this greatest of all Cadillac programs, that it amounts to the creation of a new Cadillac business and a new and vastly greater Cadillac public.

Cadillac, the world's quality standard, becomes also the price and value standard of the world by which all other car values must come to be judged

Expressed in the fewest possible words with a full sense of their weight and importance, Cadillac promises in these three groups the greatest chassis value, the greatest body value, and the greatest gross and net monetary value known to the motor industry of the world today.

The first promise of greater chassis-value can quickly be demonstrated by description, examination and part-and-quality comparison with the world's costliest cars.

It can be proved likewise by performance demonstration—revealing measures of power, speed and acceleration, transmission ease, braking certainty and riding luxury which even Cadillac-La Salle-Fleetwood have not attained before.

The second promise will reveal itself at a glance in Fisher and Fleetwood bodies so rich and beautiful that the average body appears almost tawdry by comparison.

The third promise can be verified by studying the very best that the market offers in chassis, performance and appearance and noting how far beyond this other best the Cadillacs, La Salles and Fleetwoods go in all respects.

A summing up of this comparison can have only one result proof positive of the statement printed above and reprinted here for emphasis:

Cadillac, the world's quality standard, has become also the price and value standard of the world by which all other motor car values must come to be judged.

Not in any one thing but in all things—in speed plus acceleration plus power plus economy plus appearance plus non-shatterable Security-Plate Glass plus Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission plus Safety-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes—so unmistakably the greatest monetary value of the industry that no buyer need call upon a salesman to point it out for him.

States at present are of less than 50 acres each. Except in the cotton belt most of those "one-horse farms" as they were once called, are fully farmer-owned and produce diversified crops. It takes time for great movements of evolution to come to a head, but there is such a movement in the industry of farming that is gathering strength and will inevitably revolutionize it in this country. It is manifesting its progress in a forced necessity to reduce farm units and apply intensive methods to the land utilized.

Much observation of many college campuses leads me to believe that the purpose of a college is best expressed by taking a line from the book of Daniel: "Many shall run to and fro and knowledge be increased." At least many are running to and fro.

I don't know which college you have chosen. There are those which intentionally limit your thinking to what they think you should think. Such colleges are only seeking certain aspects of truth as happen to fit their econceived notions of truth. There are other colleges, and their

Of course, you've already been told that the idea of going to college to learn anything out of books or fron professors is a foolish thought; that When they do state the purpose of their college they use high-sounding but very vague phrases, such expressions a foolish thought; that the only purpose of going to college is to form a lot of associations which will be useful to you when you come will be useful to you when you come to sell bonds or to run for the leg-islature; that a college student can get more real experience by serving as a treasurer of an athletic fund than he can if he takes a four-year course in economics; that member-ship on a college team will count more in 20 years than a Phi Beta Kappa

The ideas in the foregoing paragraph may have been about the right ideal for the college graduate of 20 years ago, because such graduates are now living in an age of "salesman-ship" bunk where a line of gab goes a long way. But there are clear indications on the business horizon of great changes. We are rapidly coming to the point where business situations muse be carefully analyzed,

They are better with the camera. But when Carlotta King gave a dinner with eight men all over six feet, for the bunked Arctica, and his companion under observation of competent nutrition specialists. Knowing from his experience in the arctic how this ell-meat diet works. Stefansson predicted that he would be ill in a few days when the diet started, and sure enough, by the evening of the second sional and artistic life of the colenough, by the evening of the second day he was nauseated, lethargic and weak in the knees, just as he had been when compelled to subsist on an all-meat diet in the arctic. The third day these symptome were intensific and a diarrhea developed. This was all due to the pure lean meat diet. The fourth day some fat was added, and on lean meat plus fat in tasteful quantities Stefansson recovered his usual good health in two days. In the first 10 days of the meat-plus-fat diet he lost about four pounds in weight, and after the diarrhea stopped there was stubborn constipation and craving for calves' brains and baa craving for calves' brains and ba-con. Too hearty indulgence in these, resulted in a couple days of nausea and diarrhea. Then an adjustment of the proportions of lean and fat meat brought about a normal state of the digestion and intestinal ac-tivity.

Anderson lost five pounds in the first week on lean-fat meat, and then began to gain steadily, and within two months had reached his original normal weight. He suffered no up-sets like Stefansson's in the carly stage of the experiment, for he had sufficient fat with his lean meat all

What in your opinion is the noblest prayer in the English language, outside of the New Tes-

No man could answer this question categorically without being accused of dogmatism. The number of noble prayers is so great that to select one as being the highest expression of devotional utterance is a task one might well refuse to undertake. Even if confined to a selection from the Scriptures, one would be baffled to make the choice. Compare, for example, Abraham's prayer in Genesis xviii 23-33, with Moses' prayer in Exodus xxxii, 31, 32, or Solomon's prayer for wisdom in 1 Kings iii, 5-9, with his prayer at the dedication of the temple in 1 Kings viii, 22-53, and also the numerous prayers of the traditional liturate and devotional literature of No man could answer this question also the prayers of the traditional liturgies and devotional literatures of the ages. It would be presumptuous to say which of these is the noblest. In such a case each must make his own choice. As a guide in doing so I recommend for this purpose two recently published books. "Private Prayer in Christian Story," by J. T. Stoddart, and "A Man of Modern Prayers," by Samuel McComb.

The glory of the New Testament Gospel is not in its total dissimilarity from all other faiths. An impartial study of camparative religions will result in the conclusion that Christianity is their consummation, because it satisfies the spiritual aspirations of the race, by means of because it satisfies the spiritual as-pirations of the race, by means of an evangel which gives men that con-divine grace which foster false pride and separatism. But this tendency should not blind us to the fact that the values which exist in and are peculiar to Christianity demonstrate themselves in spiritual nobility of character and conduct unique in the

Speaking Sunday morning on the Needed Social Order in Church and

"Needed Social Order in Church and State." Dr. Broughton, in his first sermon since his return, advanced his belief that the secret of the success of church and similarly, of a state, may be summed up in four words.

These words are, be said, understanding, co-operation, encouragement and power. Proceeding from his postulate Dr. Broughton developed his theme, going from word to word and detailing the way in which that particular quality or attribute played its part in the growth of the organization.

Dr. Broughton's sermon, in part,

Isaiah 41:6-7—"They helped every one his neighbour: and every one said to his brother, Be of good courage. Founder of Baptist Tabernacle Preaches on "Needed Social Order in Church and State."

Dr. Leu G. Broughton, founder of the Baptist tabernacle, and for many years one of the city's most prominent ministers, Sunday returned to the church he founded, to take over the duties of pastor after a 17-year absence from its pulpit. During his absence from Atlanta Dr. Broughton became widely known as pastor of the great Christ Church, in London, the great comprehensive industrial institution would insure success in all lines of business, in the affairs of the state, and in the church of our Lord. It is well, therefore, for us to seriously ponder the principles observed by him.

The Lines of Success.

"All of us worthy of membership in one church desire the highest form of success; moreover, from all over this land, and from across the seas, the lines of success."

The Lines of success. ing that she may go forward in a new and greater way. This being true, it is well for us to operate upon the principles suggested by this great prophet. Looking through what he says, and taking in its context, there comes to our mind, naturally, four great outstanding words which indicate the only way that success in any line of endeavor, particularly in the church, can be realized and maintained. They are:

"1. Understanding.

"1. Understanding.
"2. Co-operation.
"3. Encouragement.
"4. Power.
"1t is our purpose

"It is our purpose at this time to briefly consider each of these words as they indicate a principle.

"First: Understanding.
"There can be no real success in any line of business, or religion, without a mutual understanding among those concerned.

A Business Man's Principle.

"In Atlantic City this summer I talked with one of our biggest and most successful merchants. I told him I was then preparing my sermon for I was then preparing my sermon for our first service in this church as pasvil, saying. It is ready for the sodering: and he fastened it with nails, that it should not be moved.

"In beginning our new relationship as pastor and church, it has appeared to me that no more fitting text can be found within the lids of the Bible as a whole, and the weakest and most for so important an occasion. dependent departments must have the sympathetic understanding of those that are stronger. This is necessary in order that each may be of proper help to the other. If this cannot be had with existing forces then there must be a vacancy created and those brought in who can and will do it.

it is necessary that we first of all get as far as possible into the spirit of the great prophet when he wrote these weighty words.

"In his prophetic vision there appeared to him the picture of a great and successful manufacturing institution. It would seem that it was in full operation, and moving with a wonderful success.

Variety of Work.

"Note, first, the variety of the work and the workers. The range is all the way from the workers in wood, ordinarily called carpenters, to the workers in gold, known as gold-smiths. In between these two great extremes there are various and necessary forms of work. As we look further at his brief description we see a great enterprise turning out many kinds of products, calling for late work and with existing forces then there had with existing forces then there must know and will do it."

If the said with existing forces then there must know it is exactly the same, he replied:

"It is exactly the same, who can and will do it."

"It is exactly the same, he replied:

"It is exactly the same, who can and will do it."

"It is exactly the same, he replied:

"It is e

ous schools of methods in the church of today. The most needed and the most neglected school of the church of today, as I see it, is one that will bring about such a mutual order of understanding.'

"It is not only necessary for the best work of the church, but also for the best fellowship and sympathy in service. We have no right to judge one another in any matter whatsoever without first knowing and understanding the situation involved.

"A minister friend of mine gave me this experience, which he said had given him a heavy heart for many

"He had in this church a woman, very active in all of its departments of work. She was always on hand when anything was to be done and ready and willing to do her part. Gradually, however, she began to let up in her church activities, and finally ceased even to attend the services. As her pastor, he frequently talked to her about it, and she would declare that her interest was the same but that there were circumstances which that there were circumstances which her about it, and she would declare that her interest was the same but that ther interest was the same but that there were circumstances which controlled her which she could not describe. It was not long before her absence from church became a matter of common church gossip, and she was accused of losing her interest and even her old faith. The matter went on for a year or more, and one Sunday morning on the way to the church the pastor passed her house, and as he did so he met at the door one who had started for him to inform him of her death. The pastor was shocked beyond measure. When he went in he found that she had, during this time she was so criticised, been a terrible sufferer from an incurable cancer, and rather than burden her friends with it she carried the secret in her heart. When the fact of her death and the circumstances were known to the church they were all broken to pieces. Had they been more solicitive word to this frightened disciples when their ship was being tossed by the storm. As He walked upon the waves, the was so criticised, been a terrible sufferer from an incurable cancer, and rather than burden her friends with it she carried the secret in her heart. When the fact of her death and the circumstances were known to the church they were all broken to pieces. Had they been more solicitive and distribution and office that the nurse gave in her had grasp and the tender words that took away the pain and fear of the knife.

"Now, my friends, this is just the same helpful, sustaining spirit that the church of today must have. Christianity largely travels on the wheels of good cheer. This was our Lord's word to His frightened disciples when their ship was being tossed by the storm. As He walked upon the waves, the was corticised, been a terrible suffered from an incurable cancer, and rather than burden her friends with the church of today must have. Christianity largely travels on the waves, and as the church of today must have christianity largely travels on the waves, and as the church the leart. When the fact of her death and the circumstances were known to the church they were all broken to pieces. Had they been more solicitous and desirous of a proper understanding the secret of her suffering and the cause of her death would have quietly found its way through the church that she loved; but yielding to the spirit of criticism so characteristic of people in and outside of the church, they had wrongly judged and brought pain to the heart of one who had long been mightily used of God.

Asking Sure Understanding.

"The prophet of Isaiah is pleading for a sure understanding before judgment is formed and hearts and lives are pained and wrecked. The church that would succeed must see to it that there is a padlock on the lips of its people until the sure facts are known. Then the world will have more respect for our religion, and the church will have a smoother road over which to travel.

"2. Co-operation."

**Titled the storm.

"My beloved people, our Lord expects this spirit to be in us today, and to control our conduct in our residenship one to another. It was the spirit that controlled Him, and, as we are told. 'Unless we have the spirit of Christ, we are none of His.'"

Dixon told Police Captain G. T.

"Some while ago Henry Ford was interviewed regarding his business methods he was asked how he accounted for the marvelous growth of his business, and his answer was:

"Absolute co-operation, especially among the heads of departments, for they are responsible for those that are under them. We simply will not tolcrate for a minute a worker, never mind how capable he is, unless he gives the institution his undivided, loyal co-operation."

"In this Mr. Ford said nothing that any wise business head would not agree to. No man should hold a position of directorship and responsibility in any line of business unless he can and does give to it his undivided and loyal co-operation. Detroit, Mich., September 15.— (Special.)—In announcing the new Cadillacs, LaSalles and Fleetwoods, the Cadillac Motor Car Company, through its president, Lawrence P. He also adds that the Cadillac plants in Detroit are capable of building as fine an automobile as is possible to produce, and that in this new 16-cylinder V-type car Cadillac, Fisher and Fleetwood engineers have been permitted to work beyond all previous standards. # 94% OF THE TIME IT'S UNSAFE TO TRUST THE WEATHER

Study of U.S. Weather Bureau Reports Shows Only 19 Days a Year Average in United States When Outdoor Temperatures are Safe for Food

Preservation

Mother Nature is a poor guardian of perisi able foods. Back-porch and window-sill makeshifts for food preservation are unsatisfactory, insanitary, unsafe. Study of United States Weather Bureau reports shows that only 19 days a year on an average in the United States afford outdoor temperatures that are safe for perishable foods. Ninety-four per cent of the time it is too warm-too cold.

Trusting to these makeshifts is not an economy. The food spoilage—a little here, a little there—mounts to a staggering loss at the end of a year. And the menace to health lurks always in these perishables that are improperly preserved.

Health Authorities, everywhere, recommend adequate artificial refrigeration the year around as the only safe and satisfactory way to preserve perishable foods. Take this step now to save money and safeguard the health of your family.

for Safe preservation

SOME foods — the highly perishable ones—require a low degree of cold to keep them at their best, while othersvegetables and fruits, for instance, dry out, lose their natural juices and flavors if kept in a temperature too low. For this reason, a correctly constructed, well-iced and properly operated ice refrigerator is ideal for the safe-keeping of all perishable foods.

Consult chart. The accompanying chart shows where different foods should be placed and also indicates the temperatures which a good ice refrigerator maintains in the different compartments. A well constructed ice refrigerator easily maintains a temperature of 45° in the milk compartment, thus assuring safe preservation of the most perishable foods, while the temperature on the other shelves varies just enough to permit each food to be placed where it keeps best.

Just tell us to keep you well supplied with ice so that you'll have plenty on hand every day in the year. Should you wish help in selecting a good refrigerator, consult us.

as the list of prime issues manifested slight resistance to lower bids. United States Liberties and treasury notes lost the nominal gains made coincident with the announcement of the September financing.

Some dealers were pleased to report that the number of private investors inquiring for bonds was showing a slight increase and that the demand of these individuals was for the highest grade bonds only. It was generally conceded, however, that the attraction of stocks was still too great for the average person with funds to invest and that the bond market must be patient a while longer.

E. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock Exchange, addressing the Indiana Bankers' Association at Evansville on Wednesday, called attention to this situation. Although the present unpopularity of bonds as investments might be attributed in part to the erratic rates for shorter money, he expressed the belief that the increasing attractiveness of shares was perhaps a more important factor. Mr. Simmons also referred to the popularity of investment trust stocks.

Reliance International Corporation

Managed by Reliance Management Corporation

Reliance Management Corporation announces the formation of Reliance International Corporation—an investment trust, international in scope, of the general management type, having an authorized capital which contemplates an ultimate investment fund in excess of $100,000,000.

The world-wide investment of capital through the medium of investment trusts has taken place on a large scale in Great Britain for more than 50 years. During the past 10 years, the increasing surplus of capital available for investment has given rise to the formation in the United States of a large number of investment trusts with capital aggregating many hundreds of millions of dollars.

In the present era of high prices for common stocks and a rapidly mounting and confusing number of new security issues, the investor finds it increasingly difficult to select and supervise domestic investments giving him an adequate return on his capital, and having a satisfactory margin of safety and reasonable possibility for further appreciation in value. Furthermore, the average size of investment accounts and lack of time and adequate facilities, render it a practical impossibility for the individual to secure proper diversification of risk or to avail himself of the many favorable opportunities for investment in foreign markets.

Reliance International Corporation offers the investor an opportunity to participate in a world-wide investment undertaking in association with an experienced group of representative bankers, business executives and economists comprising the management, board of directors and national advisory committee.

The widespread affiliations of the Reliance group, having available the information supplied by trained economists and financial research experts, will tend to produce for the investor that selective, constantly supervised and diversified employment of funds which comprises scientific investment.

Little Joe grinned in his turn. Then he climbed up the bank a short distance away. Flip saw that he had a very long body, just as Billy Mink had; that his legs were short and that his tail was quite long and tapering. He was so big that he made Billy Mink look small. Flip guessed rightly that Little Joe weighed more than he did. SYNOPSIS.

Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in spectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown: is shaved, dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter lotel, where, to his amazement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife.

Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Dorling a subraced by Cora on his arrival and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly marked. Distillusioned and heartbroken, she aves for London.

ried. Disillusioned and heartbroken, she leaves for London.

Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Aymer Granston, in the lobby and accept his invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note. Immediately she wires Jabez Malleron, well known connoisseur of the arts and a neighbor of the Granstons. As Malleron is decoding the wire Marthe Perraile, Cecily's maid, cells. She is obviously in his employ. He directs her to bring her mistress within a few days to a towa called Mortvaig, in Stoctiand.

That night, while Dorling is dining with Granstons, Malleron calls. Later Cecily comes in, not knowing Doug is there. She greets him frigidly and creates a sensation by announcing she hears he is married.

Doug goes to see Cora and asks her to explain all the mystery. She refuses, but tells him he is to go to Mortvaig, Stoctland, to meet her chief. He agrees, but first visits his mother at Dorling Towers, on the fringe of the Dorling estate, calls Cecily's father, Charles Warren, who lives and remarks casually that his daughter has taken a job furnishing a Mortvaig millionaire's house. Doug is struck by the coincidence in names. Can it, by any chance, be the same man who is Cora's chief?

"You tell me that when I'm flying I've got to look out for the R. A. F. You tell me that you've got a machine gun planted at Mortvaig. Do you think I haven't guessed you're breaking to draw wool over my eyes. If I saw half a dozen murders committed on this island in the next half hour, your position would be just the same as regards myself. You can send me back to Dartmoor if I don't stand in with you. "Nothing." answered Beresford quickly. "The chief isn't afraid of you. Doug. But—he's a queer kind of brute—in some ways a rather big minded kind of brute. He likes every-body to be contented with their work. It's for your sake, not his or ours, that he wants to keep you in the dark. Now tonight amongst other things we're carrying a quantity of silk stuff—slipping it past the customs. Why not let it go at that?"

"It seems to me-I've got to let it go at that," said Dorling, wretchedly. "Quite right old, boy! But don't keep on blackmailing yourself—it gets on one's nerves. And do leave Dart-moor out of the conversation. You'd better take it easy now-we start at ten fifteen."

Twelve hours later, the return trip accomplished. Dorling and Beresford sat taking an early meal together in the house near Mortvaig.

"Your next trip is tomorrow week. said Beresford sleepily. "You might turn up here later than midday—so that you can go through things with the mechanics. You'll have to navigate for yourself then." "Right to!" said Dorling indiffer-

However perfect his plans, there was always the faintest chance of something going wrong. It would not be fair to ask her to run that risk. He would ask her to join him abroad, where they would live for ten years.

True, it would be inviting her to share exile. But it would be made a very pleasant exile. And nowadays lots of people lived abroad.

There were drawbacks to the plan. It would mean saying good-by to his home for a long, long period. There would be difficulty with his mother, whom he dared not burden with the

He sealed the envelope, then regis It was the anxious look that nettled Dorling and made him blurt out, "Last night we carried a woman here."

"Quite right!" said Beresford quickly, and added, "Have you been talking it over with her?"

"A word with here?"

He sealed the envelope, then registered it to Cora.

"That settles that," he told himself and honestly believed it. He did not wish to make a personal enemy of the chief, wherever he might be. The chief undoubtedly had been of vast service and, crook though he might be, it would be unfair to cheat him.

Reclaimed Waste Material MATTRESS RENOVATING Firm Here Supplies Steel Factor in Nation's Wealth FIRM NOW VERY BUSY

BENEFIT, UNSOLICITED Atlanta Envelope Company

During recent months there has een much discussion regarding the se of testimonials in advertising, and rages in the rural sections.

"There is a market and a good demand for every pound of waste mate-rial at this time," continued Mr. Luttrell, "and the man, woman, boy or girl that will gather up any amount of waste not only will be helping themselves, but also be adding to the material wealth of their country.

the prices of many commodities and useful articles now in use by the American people would jump very high in price, yet there might not be any better profits made by the manufacturers, wholeslaw or retailers facturers, wholesalers, or retailers of these same articles.

Turned Into Cash.

"The second reason by those that if a more general grathering up of waste materials is done by those that need money or encouraged by those who have to extend credit or help some one else, these same materials can be passed on to those who are in position.

devices be brought out if their basic material would cost less.

"Here again is a fact not known to the average citizen. That is, if a certain amount of old broken scrap iron is mixed with new pig iron it makes better, harder and brighter stoves than if the same stoves were made of all new iron. The reason why this is so is that the old iron has been melted one or more times more than the new iron and will contain less impurities and have a greater heat resisting strength.

"What applies to metals generally applies to rubber. Only for the fact that great quantities of rubber are being reclaimed, the prices of tires, tubes rubber heels, soles and various other-articles made of rubber would or can get. We are in touch with the will take every pound you have got the markets of the world and much of the hard stock you now have on hand the hard stock you now have on han

Conservation of waste materials should be of more corneern to the should be of more corneern to the people of the south, says G. E. Luttrell, local manager of the Knight-Luttrell Company, 972 Avon avenue, S. W.

"No matter where we travel," he says," we see great quantities of old iron or broken parts of machinery and cars and especially is this so in the southeast, not only in the cities but also out around the barns and garages in the rural sections.

"There is a market and a good decided."

Suggestions to Organization.

"We would like to make this suggestion to every firm, family, individual, church, Sunday school, fraternal lodge, labor union or other body that needs money, to appoint some member that has a car or truck to gather up, the weste materials as material wealth of their country.

"There are two reasons why prudent people should lend their support at their encouragement to the gathering up of waste materials. The first is, should no more waste materials be gathered up for three years the prices of many commodities and the same that has a car or truck to gather up the waste materials as pointed out by the rest of the body and bring them in to us and you will also be agreeably surprised how quickly you can raise a substantial sum of money in the prices of many commodities and

"Scrap materials are like good money crop, the more you have of it I the more money you can put in the bank, but if you do not take the trouble to gather it up and put it in the hands of some one who knows what had with it, then you are the loser, one else, these same materials can be passed on to those who are in position to pay cash for them and be sent to the various manufacturers that are pleased to get them. Then the prices of many commodities will not have to be advanced because of material costs and in some cases might be lowered or new articles or devices be brought out if their basic material would cost less.

The cool weather gave renewed stimulus to retail buying in such industries as radio, clothing and jewelry began to spread in preparation for the early winter and holiday trade. Freight car loadings, as reported for the last week of August, set still another new high record for the period, giving further evidence of a heavy distribution of goods.

In the steel industry, an unexpectedly disappointing showing was made

Renewed buying by the railroads is confidently expected during the next few weeks, and an upturn in automobile output, once plants get into production of new models, is hoped for. Industry Is Reported To Be Growing Rapidly in Atlanta.

The renovating of mattresses is a large and constantly growing industry in Atlanta and this is because the people of the city have unusual or portunities in having their mattresse renovated in a number of splendidly equipped mattress factories.

Especially is this so when the work s done by the Imperial Bedding Company of 601 Whitehall street. This firm has at this location one of the most modernly equipped renovating plants to be found anywhere in the southeast, with a capacity of 150 matresses a day.

This large firm begins the work by putting a mattress into a large airtight electric sterilizer where the beat is run up to 230 or 240 degrees and no bug or germ is left alive in the mattress.

Sterilizing the cotton, felt or other material in a mattress kills all odors and parasites, and then the material is run through a cotton gin with its many saws tearing the hard lumps into countless little particles and then through a powerful blower. All the dust is blown out of the cotton or feit and it then looks just like new. From the gins and dust blowers the reatment.

"To the small dealers and contract fors we say get in touch with us we will take every pound you have got or can get. We are in touch with the markets of the world and much of the hard stock you now have on hand you can use at this time and we will buy mixed as well as solid car lots of metal with no delay in the cash settlements.

"As good, hard surfaced roads from all directions lead up to the new 50-to." Howe scales at the new building of this firm there is the research for learning machine. The one in this plant in the south. The machine which is nearly ten feet wide and 20 feet long rolls the material that comes out of each individual mattress up on large rolling drums and then strips the fine spun cotton off again. It is conveyed by an automatic endless carrier to a big roller. This operation is repeated 12 times, however, before the cotton is ready for the roller and several thicknesses of these new cotton or felt bats are put into now clean material goes to the feltnew cotton or felt bats are put into any selected design or pattern of ticking that the mattress owner may desire. The owner is getting a cotton felt mattress returned in place of just a cotton mattress, and in this case the renovated mattress makes a more comfortable mattress to sleep more comfortable mattress to sleep on than when it was bought new. The Imperial Bedding Company not only renovates for private families all over Georgia, but also does a great amount of work for the large insti-tutions in and out of Georgia and also for hotels, boarding houses and private schools. # Alabama Players Are Unimpressive In Daily Workouts

Third String Squad Handles Varsity Rudely in Scrimmages—Team Must Develop Fast To Be Serious Threat.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 15.—After Alabama's husky ad indulged in about half an hour of one football candid hing and ano. aturday, Coach Wallace Wade called his backfield men over to a corner of the field for tackling practice.

In the crew were Captain Billy Hicks, Randolph Campbell, John Suther, Ralph McRight, Leon Long, Hugh Miller, Jeff Bush, Melvin Vines. Big Tony Holm was limping on the sidelines with an injured leg.

The backs paired off and fell to tackling each other with grim, set faces and a silence broken only by thudding bodies. Coach Wade stood by and urged them on with compliment and criticism. The boys displayed amazing form at tackling. The tacklers closed in warily on the "target" and suddenly rushed low, grabbed both legs and kept driving with the feet. They tackled just like they do in books on football. They banged each other to the turf viciously.

Wade Drills Squad to Stop Stumpy.

We spent most of the spring practice session in tackling practice,' Coach Wade told me, "and we have been doing this every day since September 2. We are getting ready for 'Stumpy' Thomason. The only way any team can stop 'Stumpy' is to tackle him hard and make him stay tackled after he is down. It takes a great tackling team to do that, but if hard work will make a great tackling team we will have one."

There was more seriousness in what Coach Wade said than seems on There was more seriousness in what Coach Wade said than seems on the surface. For two years "Stumpy" Thomason and Georgia Tech have dumped Alabama out of a high rating in the conference. Coach Wade is inclined to blame "Stumpy" personally on account of several tours "Stumpy" took over the Alabama goal line.

Coach Wade went on: "We had a poor tackling team year before last and were no better last year. Both Tech and Tennessee scored on us by long runs, and that always means poor tackling. We have been working harder on this phase of the game than ever before."

Not Up With Others.

It is fair to say, however, that Coach Wade and his folks are working just as hard on every other phase of the game as they are on tackling. They are working hard but, frankly, do not seem to be getting as satisfactory results as they might. For one thing, the weather always is hotter in Tuscaloosa than anywhere else on the globe. For another thing, the personnel of this year's Alabama team does not seem to be as enthusiastic about the game of football as other Crimson squads have been. They go about their chores slowly and frankly seemed a bit behind other conference squads in condition as of this date.

Coach Wade attributes the sluggishness of his squad to the blistering heat of the past two weeks and to the fact that he probably had worked his boys harder than has been the case at several other camps. ing 30 years interest in these games has increased, particularly in the past few years when more such contests have been played with the entire country watching the outstanding matches. The Pasadena games have always been a big event of the sport year in the west, but now they are almost overshadowed by a few of the major struggles that are scheduled earlier and come in the midst of the senson. The high tide of interest up to that time probably was registered in the Souther. California-Notre Dame game in Chicago in 1927 and was equaled last winter in the game between Stanford and Army at New York. Capacity crowds are expected at most of the intersectional struggles this year.

He used a No. 2 iron, the ball hitting about 20 yards short of the cup and rolling in for a dodo. Members of the party looked several minutes for the ball before it was found in the cup.
